Hive Legal is an innovative law firm which provides high quality commercial and corporate legal solutions to clients in highly regulated sectors.

Our highly experienced Health team has a real passion for working in the health sector. We work with health clients, both public and private, on a broad range of issues including health regulation, contracts and procurements, privacy and data protection, information technology and intellectual property. Within this, we have significant experience in the telehealth and digital health space, having advised on implementing and procuring telehealth offerings, mitigating key telehealth regulatory risks, drafting appropriate commercial contracts, and assisting with operational, strategic and process design and training.

Our team enjoys the challenge of advising clients on the often complex and frequently changing health regulatory landscape. We also advise on a broad range of other key regulatory frameworks within the health industry, including Medicare regulation, health practitioner laws, the Health Insurance Act, private health insurance regulation, anti-incentive regimes, therapeutic goods, medication legislation, and general health services regulation (including informed consent to treatment, legal considerations in end of life decision making, organ donation, mental health regulation and mandatory reporting).
